FinTech Clear Street Closes $165 Million Series B Funding Round to Improve Access to Capital Markets

“ We founded Clear Street to replace the outdated tech infrastructure being used across capital markets. It shouldn't take six months to open an account or a year to begin trading a new asset class. Clients are demanding better technology and better service. Clear Street is stepping up to address this issue head-on. Our cloud-native platform provides the services and data that investors need to compete in today's markets. ”
